Master of Science in Organizational Leadership Concentration in Sustainability

WHY STUDY SUSTAINABILITY?

Sustainability is an evolving paradigm that requires an understanding of the interconnections and interdependency among ecological, economic and social systems. With sustainability practices becoming more significant throughout several industries, education in sustainability is crucial for future generations. Personal responsibility, key leadership skills and access to resources are essential for meeting the sustainability challenges that are currently confronting the world.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

The Master of Science degree in Organizational Leadership (OL) with a concentration in sustainability is a 33-credit program that equips students with the theoretical knowledge, analytical skills and communication competencies to create and implement innovative solutions for sustainability initiatives within organizations. Recognizing an opportunity and obligation to create a more sustainable world, the concentration emphasizes experiential learning, research with faculty, corporate and community service, and leadership development.

Designed to meet the needs and schedules of working students, the program can be completed in two years. Courses are offered in the evenings to accommodate the working professional.

OL VS. MBA?

While the MBA emphasizes management and administrative functions within an organization (the primary focus being on order and consistency), Mercyhurst's Organizational Leadership Master of Science degree emphasizes professional leadership, while concentrating on vision and empowerment.

PROGRAM PHILOSOPHY

The OL program challenges students to synthesize contemporary scholarship with insight from our service-oriented, ethically based heritage. The purpose of the organizational leadership graduate program is to inspire our students to become exemplary leaders in service to others.
