

NICHOLE M. FLORES, PH.D.

“OUR LADY OF GUADALUPE AND MIGRANT JUSTICE IN A TIME OF POLITICAL UPHEAVAL”

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 2, 7 P.M.

WALKER RECITAL HALL | MERCYHURST UNIVERSITY

Free and open to the public. Tickets and registration not required.

Dr. Nichole M. Flores is associate professor of religious studies at the University of Virginia where she also serves as the Director of the Catholic Studies Initiative and Co-Director of the Forum on Religion and Democracy. She is the author of The Aesthetics of Solidarity: Our Lady of Guadalupe and American Democracy (Georgetown University Press, 2021). Her research has been profiled on the popular podcasts Things Not Seen and Know Your Enemy and featured on CBS Saturday Morning. Dr. Flores earned an A.B. in government from Smith College, an M.Div. from Yale University, and a Ph.D. in theological ethics from Boston College.