Assistant Professor of Computer Science

JOB DESCRIPTION

The Computing and Information Science department at Mercyhurst University invites applications for a full-time tenure-track faculty position in Computer Science at the level of Assistant Professor. We are interested in applicants with teaching and research interests in the field of Computer Science. We are looking for a passionate teacher with the ability to work effectively with others in a collegial environment dedicated to student learning. Students in our programs enjoy the personal attention of faculty members in all facets of their education. Sample courses to be taught include but not limited to: Programming in Python, Operating Systems, Computer Networks, Database, and Computer Organization.

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in Computer Science, Engineering, Computer Information Systems, or closely related discipline from an accredited institution by the start date of the appointment and a strong commitment to teaching and service. The ideal candidate will be able to teach a wide range of undergraduate courses in Computer Science and core computing courses, mentor students, and be an active member in the department, contributing to its success and the mission of the university. In addition to teaching excellence, faculty are expected to engage in scholarly activity and participate in service to the community and institution. The search will continue until the position is filled.

The Computing and Information Science department offers Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degree programs in Data Science and Cybersecurity.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled. Send a letter of interest, curriculum vitae, teaching philosophy with a list of potential courses or teaching interests, transcriptions, and three letters of recommendation to:
