COMPUTER SCIENCE FACULTY MEMBER

POSITION
Mercyhurst University invites applications for a tenure-track faculty member at the assistant professor level in computer science within the Department of Computer and Information Science in the Ridge College of Intelligence Studies and Applied Sciences. The position begins in the 2020-2021 academic year, with a start date of August 15, 2020. The position location is Erie, Pennsylvania.

Successful candidate will teach introductory and advanced courses in computer science at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The department is especially looking for a candidate with the ability to teach Python programming, Operating systems, Databases, and Probability & Statistics. In addition to instruction, duties will include curriculum and program development, service to the profession, and participation in University and Ridge College activities including student mentoring, development of internship and employment opportunities, and grant or contractual work. The selected candidate must demonstrate a commitment to teaching excellence, continued learning in their field, academic scholarship, and public scholarship. The candidate must demonstrate an ability and willingness to teach both graduate and undergraduate classes in person and online.

REQUIREMENTS
Applicants must have a graduate degree (master’s or doctorate) and professional experience. All highly qualified candidates will possess previous teaching or training delivery experience.

To be hired at the assistant professor level, applicants should possess a Ph.D., other terminal degree (ABDs are encouraged to apply), and work experience in the computer science field.

Applications will also be considered from those individuals who possess a master’s degree, significant practitioner experience, and the ability to manage applied projects; however, hiring will be at the instructor level without a tenure-track option.
Candidate must be currently eligible to work in the United States and must complete a criminal record check and child abuse clearance prior to hire.
